Contents

List of Figures, Tables and Pictures  ix

Map: Sudan and the Nile Basin  xi

Acknowledgements  xiii

Prologue: The Inauguration of the Merowe Dam  1

The Argument  3

Situating the Book  7

1 State Building, the Environment and the Civilisation Mission  12

Imagining the Environment: Paradigms of Development, Cooperation and Conflict  13

Neither Cornucopia Nor Dystopia: Political Ecology, the State and Violence  21

2 Hydraulic Civilisation and Land of Famine: The Crafting of the Sudanese State and Its Sources of Power  36

Egypt Under the Pharaohs: A Very Different Logic of Water, Civilisation and Power  38

The Nile as a Product of Modernity: Muhammad Ali and the Reinvention of the Water-Agriculture Nexus  43

Colonising the Nile: Slavery, Hydropolitics and State Building in Sudan  47

“Sudan Must Feed the World”: The Fata Morgana of Becoming the Regional Breadbasket  63

Conclusion  80

3 Mashru Al-Hadhari: The Rise of Sudan’s Al-Ingaz Regime and Its Civilisation Project  83

The Rise of the Islamists: Ideas, Power and Money  85

Salvation for Sudan: The Revolution and Its Vision  94
Mashru Al-Hadhari: Building a New State, a New Economy and a New Society 100
Conclusion 114

4 The Hydro-Political Economy of Al-Ingaz: Economic Salvation Through “Dams are Development”
   The Salvation Overreaches: Al-Ingaz and Its Contradictions in the Late 1990s 116
   The Hydro-Agricultural Mission: Al-Ingaz Reinvents Itself 124
   The Hamdi Triangle and Islamist Hegemony: The Grand Strategy Behind the Hydro-Agricultural Mission 136
   Conclusion 150

5 The Geopolitics of the Nile: Khartoum’s Dam Programme and Agricultural Revival in the Global Political Economy 151
   The Shadow of the Pharaohs: Egypt and the Hydropolitical Status Quo 152
   The “New” Global Political Economy of the Nile: The Gulf Arabs 164
   “A Sino-Sudanese Model of Development”: China and the Economic Salvation Agenda 176
   How Al-Ingaz Changed the Nile Basin: Sudan and the Erosion of the Hydropolitical Status Quo 182
   Conclusion 189

6 Military-Islamist State Building and Its Contradictions: Mirages in the Desert, South Sudan’s Secession and the New Hydropolitics of the Nile 191
   The Achilles’ Heel of Al-Ingaz: The Failure of the Hydro-Agricultural Mission 192
   Water, Civilisation and Power in the Peripheries: Novelty, Not Change 215
   The Nile’s New Hydropolitics 236
   Conclusion 247

Conclusion: Water, Civilisation and Power 249
   Water and Power: State Building’s Violent Contradictions and Sudan’s Hydro-Political Economy 250
   Water and Civilisation: State Building in Sudan and Discursive Entrapment 258
   Dams as “Temples of Modernity” and “Veins of the Nation” 262
   Islamism, Illiberal State Building and the New Geopolitics of Water: Sudan’s Salvation Experiment as a Model? 267

Appendix: Elite Interviews and In-Depth Testimonies 275
Bibliography 283
Index 307